A self-check applied by each person to their own next message: converting a raw reaction into something the other person can actually receive, and weighing an incoming message before reacting to it. Nothing here records or analyzes anyone's voice.

The transducer: before you speak or send

What's the fact underneath this? (One sentence, no adjectives.)
The trash wasn't taken out before pickup.

What's the feeling underneath this? (Frustrated, tired, unseen, rushed…)
Frustrated, and a little unseen since I mentioned it twice.

What's the actual ask? (What do you want to happen next, specifically?)
Can we agree on a fixed day and time for trash so it's not something I keep bringing up?

The filter: before you react to what they said

Check	Answer
Is this about a specific, nameable task or event?	Yes
Would I read this the same way if I weren't already at high saturation (WP-02)?	Not sure
Is there a neutral interpretation that also fits what was said?	Yes
Am I responding to their words, or to a pattern from a past conversation?	Their words

What to do next

Your message, in order
Fact: The trash wasn't taken out before pickup.
Feeling: Frustrated, and a little unseen since I mentioned it twice.
Ask: Can we agree on a fixed day and time for trash so it's not something I keep bringing up?

Suggestion
Pause before continuing. Use a neutral refusal or a pause script (WP-01), and come back when saturation is lower or the neutral reading has been ruled out.
